China Coal & Mining Expo (CCME) 2025

China's Global Event for the Industry -- Integration Innovation fires up the industry's smart development

The future of coal mining could bring significant impact to the carbon targets as well as other environmental targets including air quality targets. In addition to energy strategies and policy regimes, the pathways of energy structure transformation and coal industry transformation together with clean coal technology development are meeting in the roadmap sketched for the energy transition goals by 2050.

To reflect these initiatives, we have added to the traditional exhibits profile of coal mining production with CCME 2025 an extended Sustainable Energy showcase.
